MAGNA CHARTA ISLAND.

THIS is one of the most charming islands on the river Thames. It is about a mile and a half from Old Windsor Lock, and "is of historical interest as the scene of the little arrangement, which as every schoolboy knows, was the foundation of the freedom of England." The very stone on which Magna Charta was signed is still to be seen on the island, though some people who have not very robust faith have been known to doubt it.

AN ELIZABETHAN MANSION.

THE handsome structure shown in our engraving is one of the few good examples of the architecture of the times of "good Queen Bess" remaining in our country. Such interesting seats are the pride of our land. Their history is often a romance, and their influence on the development of architectural taste has been im-Houses such as mense. this Worcestershire mansion, with its home-like and habitable character, form object lessons from which many may profit.

GARDENING.

 H^{OE} industriously all advancing crops. Sow peas for succession. Sow radishes, summer savory, broccoli. spinach, and Thin out early horn carrots. Sow cauliflowers to come into use in October, and plant out those raised in March. Loosen the surface soil about onions, and plant out the autumn sown ones during the first moist weather. Keep an eye on insects, and destroy them.

THE FROME.

THE Frome, of which we give a view taken at Frampton Court, is one of the principal rivers in Dorsetshire. It rises in the north-west part of the county, near Evershot, and passing by Dorchester reaches Poole and falls in-to its bay. The scenery through which it passes is in many places very beautiful, giving some colour to the claim of the natives of the country that "Dorsetshire is the garden of England." Other leading rivers of Dorset are the Stour, which enters the county from Wiltshire, and the Ivel, which falls into the Parret, near Yeovil.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

THIS Warwickshire town has no authentic history earlier than the seventh century. Its pleasant situation on the banks of the Avon would no doubt always have attracted tourists in search of the picturesque, but what has made its name a familiar sound is that it was the birthplace of Shakespeare. That fact brings to Stratford-on-Avon an increas-ing stream of pilgrims, attracted by the glamour of the greatest name in English literature.

DUNROBIN CASTLE.

This imposing residence, the seat of the Duke of Sutherland, is situated in the neighbourhood of Dornoch, the county town of Sutherland. Its general character is that of a large French château or Ger-man palace, with details from the hest old Scottish? models. The State rooms look seawards, and the view from them comprises almost the entire circuit of the Moray Firth. The best view of the castle is obtained from the sea. The original Dunrobin Castle is said to have been founded in the close of | 6 53 4 35 | the eleventh century.

AT KENMORE.

THE village of Kenmore lies within a few minutes' walk of Loch Tay. The river Tay, which issues here from the loch, is crossed by a bridge shown in our engraving. From this bridge there is a fine view of Ben Lawers and of the conical summit of Ben More. The scenery in the neighbourhood is very beautiful, so much so, indeed, that the poet Burns recorded his admiration in verses which he wrote on the mantelpiece of the Kenmore Inn parlour.

in a state of decay. Protect beds of tulips and hyacinths.

This is a small town in Fifeshire on the Firth of Forth. It lies on the face of a "brae," amidst gardens and fruit trees. Once Culross was a place of importance, but it has fallen into decay. There was an abbey here which possessed great wealth, and worked large coal mines in the neighbourhood. In those days Culross had so great a trade in salt and coal that as many as one hundred and seventy foreign ships visited it at one time to take their turn for a cargo.

The Months in the above Table are calculated at only Twelve Months to the Year. If the Yearly Wages be Guineas instead of Pounds, for each Guinea add one Penny to each Month, or one Farthing to each week. Thus, Six Pounds per Year are Ten Shillings per Month; but if the Wages be Six Guineas, add one Penny for each Guinea, that is, Sixpence, and it will then be Ten Shillings and Sixpence per Month. In like manner, by adding Six Farthings to each Week, the Wages will be Two Shillings and Fivepence per Week.

"HOW STOUT YOU ARE GETTING!"

THERE is too often a scarcely veiled reproach in that exclamation: "How stout you are getting!" At any rate, the corpulent one is generally sensitive on that point, and perhaps feels a reproach where none is intended. Certain it is that to lose the swelte symmetry of youth, to broaden out, to "swell wisibly," as Sam Weller has it, and finally to become "fat and scant of breath," is a process at once humiliating and distressing, especially to those who possess that keen appreciation of personal appearance which is a part of what is termed good breeding. There is now, however, no excuse for those who have resigned themselves to carry to the grave the rotund proportions of a Falstaff. The perusal of a little book entitled "Corpulency and the Cure," by F. Cecil Russell, has afforded us not a little interest and instruction on a subject which has hitherto received but superficial attention from the medical profession. Mr. Russell has made the cure of obesity his life's study, and judging from the record of his achievements-over a thousand grateful letters from his patients are printed in the book—he has been singularly successful. The author's treatment is not by "wasting." There is no "sweating"; there are no restrictions as to eating and drinking; no drastic conditions of any kind. The medicine prescribed is simple and pleasant, purely vegetable, and perfectly harmless. Its action is two-fold; it reduces the redundant fatty tissue at a very rapid rate-in some cases to the extent of over one or two pounds in twenty-four hours-usually from 3 lbs. to 4 lbs. in a week (sometimes considerably more), and at the same time it acts as a refreshing and invigorating tonic, promoting a healthy appetite, and dispelling the feeling of depression and extreme malaise experienced by the majority of corpulent people. "Does the fat return after cessation of the treatment?" is a question that many will ask. No, under normal conditions it does not. Mr. Russell's treatment goes to the root of the malady, and, without having the slightest pernicious effect even on the most delicate persons, eliminates the cause of the tendency to corpulence. "Corpulency and the Cure," a dainty little book of some 256 pages, is now in its eighteenth edition. We would cordially recommend such of our readers who are troubled with what we will call, for the sake of euphony, "exaggerated embonpoint," to procure a copy by sending two penny stamps to Mr. F. C. Russell, Woburn House, Store Street, Bedford Square, London. This well-known specialist can claim the unique distinction of having successfully treated over 10,000 cases of obesity.

Cadbury's cocoa

"A PERFECT FOOD."

The Editor of THE LANCET, June 16, 1900, says:-

"We are glad to find that Messrs. Cadbury draw attention to the fact that there are strong grounds for object on to the addition to cocoa of certain foreign substances. This resource is quite unnecessary and, indeed, pernicious, especially having regard to the fact that cocoa alone is an excellent food as well as a stimulant, having a salutary action upon the nerve centres."

CADBURY'S is the PURE Cocoa.

Entirely free from Drugs, Kola, Malt, Hops, etc.

Three Cheers for the
